The goals of the course were very clear and allowed students to explore material that is typically not covered in other classes here at CGU.

Fully clear

q10b_improveLrnTxt - 10b. If you wish, make suggestions about the changes in the course or the way it is taught that would in your estimation enhance student learning.

Maybe in some section we can talk about the theory paper and corresponding empirical paper together. Sometime in after week talking about the empirical paper, I only remember the structure of corresponding theory when it is complicated. Maybe it is better for students in others field of econs.

I like how the class is interactive, with both students and instructor discuss each paper. I think Matt does a good job teaching us "how to read a paper" for the sake of your own research. I think the referee report is a good opportunity to really slow down and critique, I enjoyed doing that.

Less reading, but more rigorous leading would be great

10c. If you wish, make additional comments or suggestions below.

This is a great literature class with a mix of theory and empirical papers, with the right amount of rigorous critiques and discussion.

The professor provided much insight on his background knowledge and projects he's worked on in the field as well as help shape what key points to take away from each paper/lesson.
